

We are still enrolling patients for the Slice Study. To qualify a person must have acute untreated Lyme disease with an active rash that is still present. The individual must otherwise be in normal health and never have been treated for Lyme disease in the past. A digital photo of the rash should be sent for review.

Candidates for the Late Lyme portion of the study must have:

- Positive blood test on the IgG portion of the western blot (that is 5 or more bands);
- Fluid on the knee of substantial quantity such that an orthopedist is actively considering removing the fluid;
- Not have already been treated with antibiotics for Lyme.
